Theatre Itopal, Edinburgh.

MR KEMBLE does himself the honour of informing the Nobility and the Public, that the THEATRE ROYAL will OPEN ON SATERDAY, January 19th, with the highly colbrated Comedy-now acting in London with the greatest sucwill open on Saturday, January 19th, with the highly c lebrated Comedy-now acting in London with the greatest su cess and applause, to crouded and brilliant audiences, 'called

THE STRANGER. To which will be added, a FARCE, called

A TRIP TO SCOTLAND.

In respect and gratitude to the Proprietors of the Theatre Royal in Drury Lane, Mr Kemble thinks it only proper to mention, that no other Manager has been favoured by them with the manuscript copy of the Stranger, which the Public may be assured is a most excellent Piece, and very superior, (for Stage offect at least) to the printed Play.

The very great expence attending the getting up of "Blue Beard," which is now almost ready for representation, Mr Kemble bones, will be received by the Edinburgh Audience as a small tribute of gratitude for the kind manner in which he has always been protected in his difficult aituation. He thinks he may venture to say that, London excepted, there never was a theatrical spectacle, in point of decorative splendour, brought forward with equal magnificence. The Scenery is satirely by that admirable artist, Mr Naismith, and the Dresses, Elephants, Camels, Horses, Palanquina, &c. &c. by Mr Johnston, the mechanist of Drury Lane Theatre, and are all exactly finished as in London.

LOVERS VOWS, LAUGH WHEN YOU CAN, THE IEW AND THE DOCTOR, BLUE DEVIL,—and in short all the New Pieces, will be brought forward in due time.

The following Performers are engaged:

MR SIDDONS. MR SMITH-from the Theatre Royal, Bath. MR POWER-from the Theatre Royal, Liverpool.

MR FISHER-from the Theatre Royal, Manchester. MR VENABLES—from the Theatre Royal, Bristol.
MR TOMKINS—from the Theatre Royal, Liverpool. MR WILD-from the Theatre Royal, Windsor.

MRS KNIGHT-from the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden MRS CLENDENEN-from the Theatre Royal, Ditto. MISS SMITH-from the Theatre Royal, Bath.

Eight o'clock, P. M .- We learnt within these few days from Naples, that 7000 Neapolitan troops had embarked on board the Portuguese and English thips of war, the destination of which force was not known. We this morning faw three English ships of the line and a frigate appear off our port. The Russian, English, and Neapolitan Ambassadors at our Court were here, and great events were expected. The English division of the fquadron foou came to anchor. Two officers came on hore, one an English, and the other a Neapolitan Adjutant of cavalry. They proceeded to our Governors, as well civil as military, and requested permillion to fet on shore some Neapolitan troops, who might remain at Leghorn.

At that moment our General Staff affembled : They capitulated, and 7000 Neapolitan troops were fet on thore to remain here in garrison. The military duty is to be performed by forces partly Tuscan and partly Neapólitah. All the public officers and agents retain their employments. The Tufcan flag is hoifted on all the forts, and the most perfect neutrality is observed.— All property, even that of the French, is respected -Admiral Nelfon is himself with this squadron. The rest of the combined English and Portuguese fleets will enter our port this night. The Neapolitan army enter-ed Rome on the 23d—(the Leyden editor observes, that this only means the Roman territory.)—It is thought that the whole province of Romania is now in peffession of the Neapolitan troops. A great number of these troops are expected in Tuscany, by the route of Sienna. Two French gun boats have arrived here from Civita Vecchia, with the French, who have saved themselves by flight.

A variety of the clauses and provisions of the bill were, in the course of much defultory and irregular convertation between Mestis. W. Smith, H. Browne Sir W. Young, Mr Tierney, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, agreed to by the Committee.

That part of the bill respecting the income of persons holding benefices in the ecclesialtical establishment, and other persons in the service of the church, being before the Committee.

Mr Tierney faid, he deemed it incumbent on him to call the attention of Gentlemen to the peculiarly hard fituation of a number of persons in the clerical profes-fion unbeneficed, and indeed of many others holding fmall livings. He thought all those whose incomes did not exceed a certain amount, suppose 300l. a-year, should be totally exempted from the tax. It would conduce to the effential interests of religion to enable the lower orders of the clergy to make a respectable appearance, and to live in a decent comfortable manner. There was also another class of meritorious persons, of whom he would take leave then to fpeak, who deferred alfor the ferious confideration of that House. He alluded to the officers of low rank in the naval and land fervices, whose pay was inadequate to their fupport, and which was caused by the very great advance in price of almost e-very necessary article, without a proportionate increase of thipend to those persons. It was his wish to bring forward provisions to obviate those, as far as the present measure applied; but he was aware of the inutility of fuch a step on his part, unless Gentlemen opposite to him concurred with him. However, he thought it indispensibly his duty to suggest those hints.

Mr. Perr replied, he confidered it his duty to oppose every proposition of the kind adverted to by the Hon. Gentleman, as far at least as the present measure applied. -It would be fetting a precedent of the most fatal tendency, were fuch descriptions of persons so indulged .ing any forcible appeal to the feelings of the Committee So much was he convinced of this, that, notwithstandthe kind in the present instance, as tending eventually to render inefficacious the whole measure; and the House could not declare their fense of the necessity of adhering to the leading principle of the bill in a stronger manner than by fetting its face against such an appeal as that just

Several other clauses were brought up and agreed to, after which the House being refumed, the report was ordered to be received to-morrow. The other orders of the day being disposed of, and the House adjourned

Mr John Smith brought up the report of the inincome bill had been referred. The most effential claufer not already detailed, were those which enacted, that no reward should be given to the surveyor, unless his conduct was approved by the certificate of the commissioners;—that married men, in stating their income, should give an account of the separate property of their wives ;-that when perfons averaged their income from the last three years, they should not be entitled to any subsequent deduction for a diminution of profit, unless it arole from a part of their essage passing out of their hands, or having declined earrying on fome particular branch of their trade.

Mr TIERNEY asked, whether it was intended to make any allowance to Gentlemen of large property on account of the expence of keeping flewards?-He knew allowances were made to bankers and merchants for the

The CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER replied, that for the expence of collecting rents an allowance was already made by the bill; but if Gentlemen thought proper, in order to shift the burden from themselves, to employ others in the superintendence of their concerns, they were no more entitled to a reduction of their affefiments on that account, than from keeping a menial fervant. A new clause was brought up for regulating the mode of appointing commercial commissioners in Driftol, Hull, Exeter, Norwich, and other trading ci-

Mr Tiener faid, it was impossible for the House fully to understand the nature of the new clauses—and time had been allowed on the first clauses, and why not on the fecond? He trusted there would be no inconvenience in deterring the third reading till Wednesday, and, in the mean time, that the new clauses should

Mr SHAWE LEFEVEE was against deferring the third reading.

The question was then put and carried, that the bill, with the amendments, should be read a third time on Monday; and the House adjourned.

Yesterday five mails became due from Hamburgh: Should neither of these arrive in the course of this day, we shall not helitate to conclude that he packets are frozen up in the Elbe. Dutch papers, of the 17th, the latest in town, speak of the Belgic infurgents in such force, as is productive of the most serious alarm, lest they should be able to possess themselves of Ostend, through which port, it is apprehended, they will receive immediate succour from England. It is still suspected that they have established an extensive correspondence with the Orange party, in Holland.—These papers also express much uneafiness respecting the uncertain conduc of the King of Pruffia, who, it is supposed, provided he should join the new league forming against France, will immediately direct his principal attack against the Batavian Republic, which in fuch a case, it is considered, would fall an eafy prey.-The Dutch papers speak of the Texel fleet being in no condition to put to fea for want of hands to man the ships.

The Secretary at War is about to abolish regimental chaplaincies; and as a prelude to this reform, has ordered the prefent chaplains, 120 in number, on a reduction of 4s. per day during life. This measure is naturally deemed a fevere one by all those gentlemen of fmall fortune, who purchased their commissions at large prices, under the cultomary guarantee of Government that they should enjoy their full pay during life, and have permission also to fell their commissions, in like vanner as they had purchased them.

The example of a Government which, notoriously defies every law, human and divine, unquestionably could not justify a failure of either, in a nation distinguished for its strict adherence o both; but we understand that the Grand Duke of Tufcany invited the protection which it was so much our interest to afford him.

Some letters and papers were on Saturday received in town from Madrid, which, among other matters, mention the capture of Minorca.-This event, it feems, has produced little or no fenfation in that capital.

It is stated, that fince the edicts against the important tation of English commodities were began to be put into execution, there was little or no foreign trade. Spanish merchantmen were also captured by the English off Cadiz as before, while the men of war are lying idle in port.

The Madrid papers also contain accounts of various infurrections in the fouth of F.ance, particularly at Bayonne; in confequence of which fuch 'drafts had been made from Gen. Angereau's head-quarters at Perpignan, that scarce a sufficient number remained to form the General's guard.

In addition to what has been faid respecting the Island of Corfu, which containing the principal force and warlike ammunition of the French, was also fortified by General Schulenbourg, we must add, that the works were carefully preferred by the Venetians, and were put into a state of perfection by the Fiench. That place would, in all probability, require a regular fiege even yet. On the 5th of November, a corps from the combined fleets of Russia and the Porte made a debarkation on that island. LAW INTELLIGENCE. COURT OF KING's BENCH, December 10. WELL & OTHERS, V. COTTS.

The above action is of confiderable importance to the public, and came on to be tried before the Honourable Mr Iustice Buller and a special jury at Guildhall. It was o recover the amount of a policy of infurance (underwrote by the defendant and 13 others) in goods, the neutral vessel bound from Rotterdam to Hull; which ship, on the 19th December last, on her passage to Hull, was captured by a French privateer, and after-wards condemned by the French Conful at Bergen; and the underwriters refifted the payment of the lofs, on the ground of its being an illegal trade, to bring goods from an enemy's country to this kingdom. But, after many arguments, the learned judge laid down the law in the most clear manner that the trade was legal, and the plaintiff had a right to recover; and also intimated to the jury, that it would be just to allow the plaintiffs interest for their money; and, after a minute plaintiffs interest for their money; a toy confideration, the jury gave a verdict for plaintiffs, together with interest. This is the fifth cause that has been tried by the same plaintiffs on the above ship, exclusive of a special case argued before the judges at Westminster Hall last term, and each term given in favours of the plaintiffs, notwithstanding the defendant's counfel wished the judge to recommend the jury to find a special verdict; but the judge in answer said, it was the jury's province to find either a general or special verdict, on account of the plaintiffs having already been delayed upwards of 12 months; and, in case a special verdict was found, it would probably delay them 12 months longer, especially as he was clear in his opinion; therefore the defendant's counsel, after the verdict was given, offered bill of exceptions to the verdict, in order to bring the cause before another tribunal.

PLYMOUTH-Dec. 27. Last night, about 10 o'clock, Humphrey Glynn, an officer of the customs, belonging to a boat stationed at Cawfand, within this port, whilst in the execution of his duty, was shot by a party of smugglers, and died instantiy; the boat in which he was killed, was commanded by Mr Ambrose Bowden, who, together with the deceased and three other officers, fell in with a very large smuggling cutter, about three miles S. W. of Pen lee Point, lying at anchor, and just going to put her cargo into boats, then alongside her, for the purpose of landing it at Cawfand. When Mr Bowden got within hail of the sinugglers, he gave them to under and what the bost was, upon which they immediately fired point blank into her, and repeated the fire many times the second or third of which struck the decealed, and carried away the whole front of his head, when he drops and expired immediately. The fire was returned from and expired immediately.
the boat, and was kept up fo galkantly, that the faug. the boat, and was kept up to garanty, that the imag-glers cut their cable, and put to fea, without effecting the landing of the cargo. To flew the daftardly and cowardly conduct of the imageling banditti, on board the cutter, in its true colours, it is only necessary to be that her crew, together with the gangs belonging to the fauggling boat from the shore, who were then on board her, confisted of at least ten men to one in the revenue boat they had to oppose. As the vessel is known, hopes are entertained that the offenders may be brought to justice; the smugglers will, no doubt return with her to Guernsey, until they conceive the business is blown over; that being the hiding place of dallardy and truly obnoxious characters.

SIR JOHN SINCLAIR'S PLAN OR RENDERING THE TAX ON INCOME UNNECESSARY,

It is well known, that the money paid for redeems ing the land tax is at present converted into three per cent. flock. The Honourable Baronet, on the other hand, proposes, that it should be fold for ready money; and it is evident, that by felling 550,000l. of the for-merly annual, but now perpetual, land tax, at only 18 years purchase, the fum of 10 millions would be raised. Hence it would furnish a supply to the Exchequer that would render the tax on income unneceffary.

If this plan were adopted, it is evident that there would be no addition to the funded debt of the nation, which is the great object for which the tax on income is proposed. On that ground, therefore, there can be no possible objection to the measure; and as from 30 to 40 millions might be raifed by the fale of the land tax, that branch of the revenue would yield a refource of in millions per annum for at least three years.

But it may be faid that the funds will not be kept up by the money invested in them for the redemption of the land tax. This to a certain extent must be the cafe. But the answer is obvious. If the tax on income is imposed affecting even the funds themselves, must not their price diminish; whereas if the tax is prevented, and no addition made to the funded debt, beyond the proposed loan in February of cleven millions, the price of stocks must be higher.

The only other objection is, that it will be necessian to raife permanent taxes to the amount of the land tax fold, namely 550,000l. But, if the nation is able to afford to pay ten millions per ann. it certainly will no feel much 550,000l. and the exaction of the remain ing 9,450,000l. being prevented must give a degree of fatisfaction to the people of this country which they have not experienced from any of our late financial operations.

The following case is interesting to Friendly Societies.—A few days ago an application was made to the Lord Chancellor to compel the affignees of a bankrupt who had been the treasurer of a friendly fociety, to re-ftore to the stewards of that fociety all the money he had received from them. This appeal was supported by a clause in the act for regulating friendly societies, which directs that assignees, in such cases, shall restore the full amount of fums received by their officer-The affigures contended, that the bankrupt had borrowed a part of the money on interest, before he was treasurer, and thought they had only a right to refund the money he received whilst actually in office.—The Lord Chancellor, however, ordered the whole fum to be reftored. It is hoped others in the neighbourhood will take the example of fuch benevolence.

In the course of last week, a great many firking of butter, and some pieces of a wreck, were thrown allione on the sands at Aberdeen, and to the southward.—It is not certainly known what the yelfel was.

On Thursday se'ennight the Providence Success, Captain BENTLEY, from Hamburgh to London, and a light brig, belonging to Lynn, ran on board each other to the northward of the Humber—the latter funk in a few minutes, but we are happy to announce all the men were faved by getting on board the Providence Success, which has fince arrived at Hull with damage.

The plan for cultivaring the Waste Crown Lands has induced an ingenious mechanic at Birmingham to attempt the construction of a machine for tearing up forest and other trees of large dimensions. The author fays, that his machine, with three horfes and fix men, will completely tear up 120 large trees in 12 hours.

We have good authority to fay, that the representa-Scotland, respecting the mode of rating their income, are considered as perfectly just, and will be attended to in the future progress of the bill.

PRINTER OF THE CALEDONIAN MERCURY.

In spite of wars and taxes, as a proof of the thriving state of the stewartry of Kirkeudbright, you will please insert what follows in your excellent paper:

On Saturday the 29th of December, all the te-mants on the estate of PATRICK HERON of Heron, Esq. M. P. came and paid their rents, without a single complaint of the times, chearfully and pleasantly.— They afterwards adjourned to Kirouchtree, where they dined with their landlord, and after dinner gave the following loyal and truly patriotic toalts.

Our Gracious Sovereign, Farmer George. Perpetuity to our Ulorious Constitution. The Duke of York and the Army. Earl Spencer and the Navy. The Land of Cakes. Honest John Bull. A Sight of his Sins to Paddy. Unity and Concord amongst ourselves. Success to Farming. A Chearful Obedience to our Laws
